Dear Linda,

I understand that you are very eager to hear from customers that have used the product Ethos FR so I would like to offer my feedback.

Our company, ValueOils.com, has been testing your product on one of our delivery tankers for a little over month and I must say the results have been nothing short of brilliant.

The tanker in question is in need of some engine work It had labouring horse power, high emissions and very inconsistent mileage, so was an obvious choice for our trial. We were astounded to find that after just one day of use, our smoke emissions had decreased by almost 50% and the vehicle's overall coolant temperature had also been reduced.

Following our sixth refill of diesel when using Ethos we have noticed a significant impact upon the tanker's horse power and are pleased to say we saving between 20-25 litres a day of fuel.

Obviously we are very pleased with these results, as the only low-cost home heating oil operator in Northern Ireland we place efficiency in both our staff and equipment as our highest priority, to maintain the streamlined service we provide and pass those savings onto our customers and drive down the over-priced nature of the heating oil market.

Ethos has allowed us to cut our costs further and place additional faith in an otherwise under performing vehicle. ValueOils.com is also extremely pleased with the environmental benefits the product has allowed us and is glad to say we will now be using Ethos FR in all our vehicles.

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter.

Regards,

Martin Largey
